

Abstract

An angled portion that is concentric with respect to an ink passing port 4 is formed in a central region 7 of a membrane portion 2 to function as an elasticity providing portion, whereby the influence produced when a thick portion is injection molded at the periphery is removed from affecting elasticity of a membrane valve.